Choosing a contractor to work for you can be a difficult decision, especially if you have never used a contractor before. With so many unscrupulous businesses you have to be careful. Make sure your contractor is licensed, has references that can be verified, check with your local Better Business Bureau to make sure multiple complaints are not lodged against that contractor and then proceed with caution.

When your electrical work is done by American Electrical Contracting, Inc. you can count on being wired right at a fair price by a locally owned and operated company. With roots in the community and an excellent reputation, we are not just your electrician, we are your neighbor. Your satisfaction is our goal and your positive referral is the key to our continued success.

Over the years American Electrical Contracting, Inc has built a solid reputation with both Consumers and General Contractors on Commercial and Residential projects. Please review this small sample of our work. When you need an Electrical Contractor, for your residence or business, call American Electrical Contracting, Inc and join our long list of satisfied customers.
